

Saturday October 22, 2016
10am -2pm

Knowledge Activism and Health and Safety– the Challenge and the Promise

McMaster University, Burke Science Building Room106, Hamilton - 10am to 2pm.

A seminar by activists, practitioners and researchers on how to be successful in reducing hazards at work.

With a particular focus on Bill 132 which just came into force and the possibilities of reducing harassment and sexual violence at work, LOARC - Labour OHCOW Academic Research Collaboration - is presenting its research on how knowledge activism makes worker health and safety representatives more effective. This event is for students, union representatives, practitioners and researchers in a conversation about improving our knowledge activism.

Please register by October 18 by emailing kingan@mcmaster.ca. Lunch is provided at the end of the session.

Sponsors – LOARC, McMaster University School of Labour Studies, and the Occupational Health Clinics for Ontario's Workers (OHCOW)

Occupational Health Clinics
for Ontario Workers

Centre de Santé
des Travailleurs(es)
de l'Ontario